Sources/Interpretations for use with Section B.

Sources for use with Questions 3(a) and 3(c).

Source B

Source B: From a declassified US National Security memo from 1961 detailing assistance to the government of South Vietnam.
President Kennedy has approved measures to assist President Diem, including: 1. Provision of transport helicopters and air support to South Vietnamese forces. 2. Dispatch of US personnel for aerial reconnaissance. 3. Expanded training programs and equipment delivery. 4. Increased economic assistance. 5. Deployment of military and administrative advisers.

Source C

Source C: From President Lyndon B. Johnson's televised address to the nation, July 1965.
I have consulted with General Westmoreland regarding our forces in Vietnam. Today, I ordered additional units to deploy, which will raise our active strength from 74,000 to 125,000 troops. Further forces will be dispatched as required. This expansion will necessitate an increase in monthly draft calls to sustain our military commitments.

Interpretations for use with Section B.

Interpretations for use with Questions 3(b), 3(c) and 3(d).

Interpretation 1

Interpretation 1: From a modern historical study.
The decisions made by the Kennedy administration in 1961 marked a key phase in the escalation of US involvement. The deployment of advisers grew from several hundred to over nine thousand by 1962, alongside a major expansion of military aid. Kennedy also authorized tactical operations involving defoliants, establishing a pattern of direct military support.

Interpretation 2

Interpretation 2: From a different historical perspective.
President Johnson was primarily responsible for converting the advisory mission into an active combat war. Following the Gulf of Tonkin incident, he initiated air strikes against North Vietnam and approved plans for a sustained bombing campaign. His deployment of two combat divisions in early 1965 initiated the direct involvement of US ground forces in active fighting.
