The Second British Empire (1783–1914)

Naval Hegemony, De-industrialisation, The 1857 Rebellion & The Scramble for Africa

VISUAL DECODING • 4 CORE FEATURES

Walter Crane (1886)

Published for Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee, Walter Crane illustrated British global dominion, placing Britannia enthroned atop the world surrounded by colonial subjects:

1. GLOBAL SOVEREIGNTY: Britannia enthroned with trident and shield, commanding world oceans with the British lion.

2. IMPERIAL RED SHADING: Every colony tinted red on Mercator projection, exaggerating British worldwide territory.

3. NAVAL SEA LANES: Global steam trade routes guarded by Royal Navy ironclads, asserting industrial hegemony.

4. SUBORDINATED PEOPLES: Colonial subjects depicted bearing commodities, legitimising racial hierarchy as natural order.

RED SHADING
Dominance on global Mercator maps.

BRITANNIA'S TRIDENT
Naval supremacy under Two-Power Standard.

LABOURING SUBJECTS
Moral justification for resource extraction.

DISCIPLINARY SIGNIFICANCE: In late 19th-century Britain, popular cartography transformed colonial conquest into a glorious imperial federation, hiding the violent realities of exploitation behind colourful patriotic propaganda.

DISCIPLINARY HINGE QUESTION: EVALUATION

Does this map celebrate a cooperative global commonwealth of mutual progress, or does it disguise a coercive racial empire sustained by naval dominance and economic extraction?

Primary Visual Evidence: Imperial Federation: Map of the World Showing the Extent of the British Empire in 1886 • Walter Crane
