John White (Watercolour) (1585) The British Museum, London (1906,0509.1.21)

COVER SOURCE STUDY 1585

'A cheife Herowan' — Algonquian Leader at Roanoke (1585)

Painted from life on Roanoke Island during Raleigh's 1585 Virginia expedition, John White's watercolour records Secotan leadership before English food demands sparked fatal violence.

3 DETAILS TO SPOT IN THIS SOURCE:

1. Square copper gorget on a neck cord — prized trade metal English settlers bartered for corn.
2. Shaved roach hairstyle, upright feather, and body markings denoting elite Secotan rank.
3. Composed folded-arm stance painted from life before Ralph Lane's ambush killed Wingina.

CLASS DISCUSSION: Why did English dependence on Algonquian food supplies rapidly turn initial curiosity—captured in John White's 1585 watercolours—into fatal conflict at Roanoke?
